THE DROWNED GIRLS.

FUNERAL AT ST. JAMES TO-DAY.

Further Particulars of the Deplorable Affuir-Funeral Arrangements. The bodies of Missey Gibson and Williams, who were drowned at Old Point Monday noon, were brought to the city yesterday, and there will be a joint funeral this morning at 10 o'clock from St. James Episcopal church.

Miss Charlotte Randolph Williams was sixteen years and three months old and sixteen years and three months old and Miss Charlotte Randolph Williams was sixteen years and three months old, and was the daughter of Mr. John L. Williams, banker and stock-broker, who resides at 609 east Leigh. Miss Susie Eleanor Williams Gibeon was in her seventeenth year, and was the daughter of P. H. Gibson, Esq., secretary of the State Board of Underwriters of Virginia, and who resides at 617 north Sixth street. Deceased were 617 north Sixth street. Deceased were first cousins, and were at Oid Point (with two others) under charge of their aunts, Miss Sue Williams and Miss Kate Skelton. THE PLACE where they were drowned was just a little above—that is to say, west of—the Fortress Monroe steamboat-wharf.

The party were boarding at Mrs. Eaton's, and had gone down to Mr. Kimberley's bath-house, a locality with which they were familiar from having bathed there last year and the year before. Though Miss Gibsan had learned to swim a little, their custom had been to keep near the bath-house, but on Monday the water was perfectly still and they ventured forth further than usual and while the tide was ebbing fast. All at once Miss Williams went over her depth. It is believed that the washing of the tide during the winter had made a precipitous bottom the winter had made a precipitous bottom at a certain spot there and that she stepped from it to death, and that Miss Gibson, trying to save her, also got beyond her

THE DROWNING. Miss Sue Williams, the aunt, who was Miss Sue Williams, the aunt, who was carefully watching them, says that she cannot remember that they made any outery, but she saw from their motions that they were drowning and appealing for help, though at first she supposed that their hands were going up and down in play. She instantly went to their relief, and got over her depth and was drowning, and one of the other cirk with her when Mr. E. J. of the other girls with her, when Mr. F. J.
Boyle, of Baltimore, who was swimming near by, came to their relief and pulled them ashore. By the time this was done the two girls were out of sight.

THE SEARCH.

Many who were altracted to the spot by hese occurrences say Miss Sue Williams segged and begged those who were adminstering to her in well-meant kindness to leave her alone and try to get the girls out, and once she broke away for the water again, but was caught and held back. Dr. Hubbard, of the Marine Hospital Service, who happened to be on the wharf at the time, plunged in as soon as possible, but was unable to find the drowning girls. It was all over in a miguite.

It was all over in a minute.

The correspondent of the Norfolk Land-The correspondent of the Norfolk Landmark says;

The plarm had now spread, and in a short time a score of expert swimmers, who had been idling away a pleasant bour in front of the hotel, came on the scens, and it once commenced diving to recover the missing ones, while several hundred spectators lined the wharf, exertly watching the frantic but fruitless efforts of the divers. While this was in progress word had been passed into the fort, and soon surgeon Bailey and Stewart Rodgers, equipped with an electric battery and other needful appliances, arrived, to be in readiness in case the bedies were recovered, to endeavor to resuscitate them.

needful appliances, arrived, to be in readines in case the bodies were recovered, to endeavor to resustifate them.

The following Jury has been drawn, from here to try the damage suit of Clark, which grow here friends.

RECOVERY OF THE BODES.

The efforts of the divers were continued with unrelaxed vigor for nearly an hour, when Jimmy Helan, messenger in the Chesaneake and Ohio telegraph office, came up, and reported that he had found one of the ladies, but was pointed out, when Mr. Barney Green, of the hotel, an expert swimmer, went down and brought up the remains, which proved to be those of Miss Gibson. Dr. Balley and his assistants at once set to work, and did everything that human effort could to restore consciousness, but without success, as the spirit had long cretible passed away.

Shortly afterward General J. C. Tidball,

Geteral John E. Multide amounted to this durin without success, as the spirit had long ere this passed away.

Shortly afterward General J. C. Tidball, commander, sent out the Government barge manned with a picked crew and supplied with grapping front, to search for the missing one, and also had two pieces of artillery fired over the spot where they had disappeared, but without avail. A number of conces supplied with oyster tongs were soon at work, and after much weary waiting the remains of Miss Williams were brought to the surface by Dyke, a colored oysterman, who turned them over to her weeping friends and was liberally rewarded for his efforts.

This correspondent gives to Dr. Hubbard the credit of saving Miss Sue Williams, but Richmond porties who returned here with the bodies were under the important that the here with the bodies were under the impression, from what they heard, that that was due Mr. Boyle. However that may be, both gent'emen did all that they could. Mr. Boyle was in the water when the ladies got to the bath-house; but with fine feeling, supposing that they would like to be to themselves, he withdrew to a considerable distance. From this and the fact that he was not a strong swimmer, his aid, which would have been invaluable, could not be had when it might possibly have availed to save the two girls.

The whole of the party at the Point consisted of Misses Charlotte Williams, Sue Gibson, Seyne Williams, Mary Cringan, and two aunts of the drowned girls—Misses Susan Williams and Kate Skeiton.

The bodies of the deceased were taken to their respective homes here.

The bodies of the deceased were taken to their respective homes here.

The under-tow possibly had something to do with the unfortunate occurrence; that and the ebbing tide, too; but there is a general opinion that Miss Williams first, and Miss Gibson next, stepped suddenly and unexpectedly into water over their heads.

They were walking along in the water they had in the state of the state of

The people at Old Point, one and all, but Richmonders particularly, showed extreme distress at the deplorable affair, and were the truth to say that in the whole city there could hardly be found two girls more truly lovely in life and person than were the dear little ladies now lying so cold and still in their coffins. Their faces bear no traces of the agony which must have been theirs when they found themselves in the local water and citizen. deep water and sinking. On the contrary, there is a wonderful beauty and plactdity about them; it is not like death or sleep—

Commodore John F. Mayer, of the Old Dominion Fishing and Yacht Club, has received the following letter, dated July 3d, from Mr. C. P. Allen, of the Second Presbyterian Fishing Club of Philadelphia: "We have this day shipped to your address one Quaker gun—same patent as our own—which we desire to present to your elub as an evidence of the good feeling entertained by our members to fishermen the world over, and the Old Dominion in particular." The Old Dominion Fishing and Yacht gentiemen are very much delighted at this token of esteem, and yesterday went down to the Old Dominion wharf, and inspected their present with great interest.

BASE-BALL

Score Nine to Feur. At least a thousand people visited the Virginias' Base-Ball Park yesterday evening to witness the game between the Wilmingtons and the home boys. To draw it mildly, the crowd was disappointed. Owing to the standing of both clubs a fine "play" was expected, but the reverse was the result. In the first juning the errors of the Virginias candidated the Wilminstern.

the result. In the arst tuning the errors of the Virginias enabled the Wilmingtons to score five runs. This was followed up by the visitors, who returned the compliment, giving the home gine one run? Each club was then successively blanked until the fifth inning, when the Virginias made three runs, placing the score 5 to 4 in layor of the Wil-mingtons. In the sixth inning the Wil-mingtons made three runs, and in the eighth they added another to their record, while the Virginizs were blanked to the end of the game, the score being 9 to 4 in favor of the Wilmingtons. The Dugan brothers composed the Virginias' battery, while Nolan and Cussick were the visitors

The bridges are substantial structures, several feet above the highest water mack so far recorded. For their services in the prosecution of the enterprise handsome gold-headed canes were presented to day to Mr. Waiter Johnson and Mr. A. T. Boose. Appropriate speeches were made by Judee Allen, Mr. Johnson, and Captain J. H. Figgatt. About 2,500 people were present. A great deal of eating and drinking was done. The day was unusually warm, and everybody seemed very greatiy to enjoy his or herself and everybody else. Toward the close of the day, however, a very sad accident occurred near Salisbury, a few miles above. A Miss Reed, an elderly maiden bady of that neighborhood, was run over by an excursion train and was run over by an excursion train and was run over by an excursion train and the combination of a number of merchants for the consum-

Contending Councils.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

Norpolk, July 8, 1884.

Both the Reädjuster and Democratic select Councils met to-night. The Reädjustsing closely and confidence. During the latter part of the war he served in the artillery branch of the Confederate army, and more recently served a term of four years in the Common Council. He leaves a widow and a large family of children.

The special committee of the Common Council appointed on the 1st of July to communicate with Vice-President Wellford relative to the building of the Virginia and Carolina railroad via Petersburg, after holding a meeting and exchanging viewe on the subject, this morning forwarded a letter to that gentleman submitting a proposition unanimously agreed upon by the committee. The proposition is in effect as follows:

The railroad shall be completed from the Rosnoke river to Piney Pond, in Meeklenburg county—the work to be commenced at Petersburg and the road to be built in the direction of Piney Pond. Or be city will give the company a bonus of 250,000, of which amount the sum of 835,000 is to be expended in the purchase of a right of way through the city, and $15,000 in the servicin of suitable depot buildings. Furthermore, the city will give the company on an equal basis, $100,000 of her own bonds to aid in the construction of the road—this sum to be given at the rate of $5,000 for every mile of the road up to twenty miles completed out from Petersburg.

This proposition will be submitted to the Council on the 10th Instant as the tonal manual proposition, as a guarantee of the road being built to Petersburg was for a mutual exchange of $20,000, of bonds, on which basis hey express a willingness to treat. The Cockade City and Appomatiox bond the basis help were proposed.

It would be unperdonable in a manufacturer not to adopt what he found hest, and he was satisfied there was nothing to beat the design of the 63-ton gun as now being made in the Royal gun factory. Not being hampered by the necessity for utilizing old materials, we have been able to devote all our rials, we have been able to devote all our energies to new gues instead of altering old and inferior guns, as is being largely done all over the continent. In numbers we were still behind, but all that is required is money and a little more time.

The armor-plates of the iron-clads were still strengthening, and the guns and the projecties must keep page or become worthless, and it was to be hoped that the country would seriously face the subject and not refuse to my its war insurance. Country would seriously face the subject of the Richmond Dispatch. Jackson, July 5, 1884.

This usually quiet hamlet was the scene of great excitement to-day by reason of a general joinification, gotten up to celebrate the completion of the two country bridges which the Richmond and Alleghany railroad has constructed over the James at Jackson and Eagle Rock. In consideration of the sum of $18,000, received from the country in the way of extinguishment of four years' laxes, the company has put up these bridges at a total cost. I am told of a sum much greater, expecting to be remarked in the increased extension of its business.

KING AND QUEEN.

Democratic Mass-Meeting- Delegates to the District Convention.

Pursuant to a call, the Democratic party of King and Queen county assembled in mass-meeting at the court-house on July 3d. Chairman W. A. Saunders called the meeting to order. Dr. John Bagby was chosen temporary chairman and T. J. Cluverises secretary. On motion, a committee was appointed to select officers. The committee reported as follows: For chairman, W. A. Saunders: Executive Committee:

New Town district—W. R. Broaddus, W. H. Walker, and Dr. John Bagby; Stonesay ille district—Dr. A. C. Grubbs, J. W. Marston, and W. J. Leigh; delegates at large to Tappahannock Convention. Cantain N. B. Street; alternate, Colonel E. B. Montague.

The following resolution was unaimously adopted:

The syndicates of the dignity of public corporations had a similar origin. The word corner is probably also of Latin origin. It suggests corne, a horn—a thing which terminates in an angle, where is a secret and retired place. The phrase "to make a corner," however, is one of purely American origin, and it is suggestive enough. It implies the concentrating of some object into a limited area, from which there shall be but one egress, of which the cornerers hold the key. It suggests something like the gathering of a Highland sheep farm, where the animals are irresistibly driven in from widely-distributed spots to one small "fank." It suggests the bag or drawer of the thrifty housewife, into which is gathered all actually or potentially useful articles. all actually or potentially useful articles. Even musical people are hardly aware for how much a first-rate instrument counts in the success of a first-rate violinist. They see, of course, when they use their wits, that the fullness and beauty of tone must make a good deal of difference, but they do not realize that a man can hardly lead a quartet of powerful players with success unless he has a really good instrument, and that there are some fine and powerful effects which are impossible on a second-rate one. When one knows what the difference amounts to it is enough to make one feel socialistic about fiddles, and wish that the treasures in the form of really fine examples could become the property of the nation, and The Methodist Conference for the Nor-tolk district is now in session here, about renerable Dr. L. Second Citizen—A Proposition

Second Citizen—A Pr ful, till it ultimately becomes the crowning marvel of the strange history of the instrument that it is too expensive a luxury for any one who can play to keep. The history is altegether full of the strangest mysteries and perplexities, which the excellent little book of Mr. Fleming puts well, clearly, and comprehensively for any one who takes an intelligent interest in such a matter. In the first place there is mystery enough at all times in a lost art, and it heally appears as if the possibility of making a violin at all comparable to the old ones was utterly gone and irreceverable. People have got all the advantage of the most delicate and sensitive machinery, all the experience of ages of musical development, and all the fruits of acoustical experiments and calculations, and yet they cannot put together a little box of wood with holes in it in such a way that, when compared with those made a couple of centuries ago, they are fit to be called even decent fieldles. And it is not the age of the old ones that makes the difference; it is the art with which they were made, and nothing more. In fact, the skill seems to have been developed by a sort of special instinct, just as it has been with the art to which these perfect instruments administer.
